GHI Re-elects 4 Incumbents; Officers Will Be Chosen Tonight

Greenbelt Homes, Inc. members voiced a clear expression of confidence in the present Board majority by returning to office four incumbents at last week's election. Also elected was a fifth candidate associated with the majority, with the sixth vacancy going to an opposition candidate.

High man in the balloting was Ed Burgoon who has been continuously elected to the board since 1954. He received 66 per cent of the board vacancies occurring between elections will be filled by a plurality vote of 50 per cent of the remaining directors. Other by-law changes adopted correct a conflict with respect to use of referendums and make it possible for the corporation to comply with Maryland law in obtaining a corporate real estate broker's license.

The only by-law changes from the floor concerned the deletion of a requirement that an officer of the corporation, in addition to being a member, must reside in a Corporation dwelling. The language was deemed subject to loose interpretation. A requirement that an officer must be at least 21 years of age was adopted.

Elected to the nominations and elections committee by unanimous vote were George Adams, Bruce Melvin, J. Walsh Barcus, Andrew Feeney, and Gerald Boisvert.

No Fireworks

In sharp contrast to last year's annual membership meeting, last week's meeting attended by 150 persons was characterized by relatively no controversy. Through a vote of the membership, the minutes of the executive session of January 23, 1964 were made public. This document, part of which was disclosed by director Helm during the campaign, gave rise to charges of "conflicts of interest" by Helm, and to "breach of trust" and "quotations out of context" by his opponents. Apparently, the voters were not influenced by Helm's charges.

A move to revise the proxy procedures was sent to an ad hoc committee with instructions to bring forth a report to the directors within 3 months.

Children's Art Exhibit

This weekend will mark the beginning of a special exhibit of local children's art work at the Twin Pines Office. Sponsored by the Greenbelt Arts and Crafts Guild, the show will feature work of the primary grades of the Center School. Due to the efforts of Miss Marcette Lentz, a creditable collection of art work done in the classrooms recently has been assembled — not as a special project for this show, but merely to demonstrate the level of artistic achievement attained by the youngsters.

It is hoped that in the forthcoming months, a wider exhibition will be sponsored by the Guild, to include all the children of Greenbelt, wherein a specific attempt will be made to encourage the younger artists to work towards a high standard of work suitable for such an area show.

Library Association Meeting

A meeting of the Greenbelt Library Association will be held at the Youth Center next Tuesday, June 2, at which time a report will be given on the results of efforts of the committee to press for a new library building. Since the zoning hearing to be held by the Park and Planning Commission on June 10 will include certain sites being considered in Area 13 (Greenbelt-College Park Area), interested citizens should endeavor to attend Tuesday's meeting, which will start at 8 p.m.

City Notes

Swimming Pool Opening

The swimming pool will open on Memorial Day, Saturday, May 30, 1964, at 1 p.m. Although Friday is an official city holiday and the offices will be closed, passes can be obtained at the Treasurer's office in the morning between 9 and 12. Passes will also be sold at the swimming pool during hours it is open for business. Mr. William F. Edwards will serve as manager of the pool again this year. Other members of the pool staff are: Mary Barcus, Alan Christy, Thomas Hieber, Charles Marquardt, Stephen Paddock, Diane Pisano, James Schultz, Dennis Sisco, and Alan Vaughn.

The pool and the bathhouse have been freshly painted and fixed up. Only limited repair work has been done as the city is planning to completely renovate the pool this coming winter. Water purification, however, should be improved due to the purchase of a new machine to add chlorine to the water. This chlorinator was purchased in accordance with plans for the renovated pool and can be used after the renovation.

Annual Report

Last Friday the first annual report of the city for the year 1963 was released to the public. Copies were mailed to each household in Greenbelt except for the residents of Springhill Lake. Copies are available at the Community Building in Springhill Lake. Extra copies of the annual report may be obtained at the city offices upon request. Mr. Ronald Dick, Administrative Aide to the City Manager, was primarily responsible for the compiling of data and preparation of the report.

Meeting with John G. Field

On Tuesday, June 16, at 8 p.m. the city council will meet with Mr. John G. Field, Director of the United States Conference of Mayors' Community Relations Service, concerning the question of establishing a Human Relations Advisory Board in Greenbelt.

Memorial Day Holiday

The city offices will be closed on Friday, May 29, which is a city holiday because of Memorial Day. The refuse collection crew, however, will be making the regular routes on both Friday and Saturday. The Police Department, of course, will also be functioning.

Public Works Activities

The following is a listing of some of the things done by the Public Works crew during last week:

1. Installed underground wiring between two light poles on the west parking lot to complete the rewiring work of this lighting circuit.
2. Completed repairs of the swimming pool and started to fill the pool.
3. Installed a new chlorinator, which was purchased from the replacement fund and which meets the requirements for the renovated pool.
4. Graded a new ditch between the homes on Lakeview Circle and park area to the south of the underpass near the Center School.
5. Cleaned up the park area be-

RECREATION BUDGET CRITICIZED; TAX YEAR CONVERSION DISCUSSED

by Al Skolnik

Proposed expenditures for recreation and for a reserve fund for conversion of the tax year drew the main sparks at last Monday's public hearing on the 1964-65 municipal budget. Criticism was also expressed at the proposed level of expenditures ($530,500), some 42 per cent higher than that of the current year.

At the hearing outset, Mayor Edgar Smith explained that the council had not yet reached any decision on particular items in the budget. The hearing was being held to hear comments from the public on the budget as proposed by city manager James K. Giese. Final budget decisions will be made in a series of council meetings this week and next. The budget must be adopted by June 10, but council is aiming to finish its business before the week-end of June 6 in order to attend the annual convention of the Maryland Municipal League.

Recreation

The recreation budget drew the customary exchange of audience views, ranging from those, on one side, who felt that too much was being spent for too few to those, on the other side, who felt that Greenbelt's recreation program, with its wide diversity of activities, was a chief attraction of the city.

Representing the thinking of the former group was Frank Perazzoli who deplored the fact that the budget called for about $5,000 to be spent on renovating and construction of tennis courts when the present courts were being used by only a small number of people. Dick Pilski also felt that the amounts spent for various recreation activities were out of proportion to the participants involved. Both felt that recreation money should be concentrated on activities that drew the most participants.

Defense of the recreation programs was expressed by Jackie Hufendick, among others, who pointed out the need for families in limited quarters to have recreation facilities sponsored by the city. It was pointed out that a recreation program to be successful must be well-rounded and have a variety of programs that appeal to different interests. Mrs. Elaine Skolnik observed that the recreation program is costing only $3.62 per year per person or just about a cent a day.

There was general agreement that some of the recreation activities could be offered on a fee-for-service basis and that the council should explore issuing annual passes for the use of the tennis courts which would have priority rights over non-pass holders.

Tax Year Conversion

The proposal to establish a reserve of $27,000 to meet the costs of converting the tax year from a calendar to a fiscal year basis ran into opposition from residents of free-standing homes. According to State law, the city must accomplish this conversion by the fiscal year 1966-67. The conversion will require the city to raise a year and a half taxes in a period of a year, since at present the city's fiscal-year budget is being met by taxes raised on a calendar year basis, thus creating a six month's lag in revenue.

Giese estimated that over $300,000 will need to be raised in additional taxes in 1966-67, if no advance provision is made. Several homeowners argued that by 1966-67 the tax base will be so increased that raising $300,000 then may not be as burdensome to the individual taxpayer as raising much smaller amounts now. They also felt that it would not be equitable to make advance provisions now, since taxpayers coming into the city in 1966-67 will only be paying part of their share. Finally, some objected on philosophical grounds that the individual homeowner, and not the city, should make their own advance provisions for paying the accumulated tax.

In rebuttal, others pointed to the fact that the last time Greenbelt citizens were hit with double taxes (Lakewood residents whose mortgage company had failed to include city taxes in the monthly charges, thus resulting in two years' taxes being collected in one year) the council was deluged with complaints and some homeowners were even forced to give up their homes. To avoid this kind of crisis, it was argued that the city should make advance collections, especially in a year when the tax rate is coming down anyway.

General Criticism

A general criticism of the overall budget level was voiced by former councilman Ben Goldfaden. He stated that a 42 per cent increase in expenditures was not justified since population was only increasing 32 per cent. Giese had earlier pointed out that one of the reasons for the increased expenditures was the need to catch up on a backlog of items, such as replacement funds, that had been reduced to the bone by previous councils striving for tight budgets.

Goldfaden argued that the best way to prevent multiple-family and high-rise apartment construction was to lower the tax rate to the point where developers would be encouraged to build free-standing homes.

New Pay Schedules Proposed for City

A report calling for the adoption of new pay schedules for city of Greenbelt employees was made public last week. The report signed by William Rowland, chairman of the Personnel Advisory Board, and the remaining member James Hanna, contained three recommendations. (During the preparation of this report, 3 members of the Personnel Advisory Board were forced to drop out of the study because of personal reasons).

- 1) The Federal General Schedule (GS) be used as a guide for the city's white collar positions.
- 2) The Greenbelt Homes, Inc. Wage Board Schedule be used as a guide for the city's blue collar positions.
- 3) Money be included in the 1964-65 budget to provide for conversion of all city positions to the new schedules.

The 1964-65 budget has a $15,000 reserve to provide for the conversion and city manager James Giese has announced that if the council approves this amount, the pay adjustments will go into effect October 1, 1964.

GCS Barbecue Planned

On Monday, June 1, at 8 p.m. in the Co-op Community Room, a meeting sponsored by the Greenbelt Delegation of Greenbelt Consumer Services, will be held to discuss plans for the forthcoming 25th anniversary celebration. Don Cooper of the GCS board, will outline the program for the Corporation Annual Meeting and barbecue, to be held Sunday, June 21 at Greenbelt, and it is hoped that many members and friends of the Co-op will attend this meeting to lend their active support to the undertaking. Many local members will be given an opportunity to act as hosts, with various talents being asked for by the picnic chairman, varying from registration duty to square dance calling.

hind the homes on Northway.

6. Cut the grass in all city park areas.

7. Removed a fallen tree and cleaned up the city playground and park area to the south of the underpass near the Center School.

8. Installed a "Residents Only" sign requested at 5 Court of Gardenway.

Garden Beauty Appreciated

To the Editor:

On Sunday, May 24, a number of us had a thrilling experience. The nominal sum of 50 cents bought each of us a ticket for the House and Garden Tour sponsored by the Woman's Club of Greenbelt Scholarship Fund. (Incidentally, I am not a member of this organization). Ten homes and gardens were listed on the tour, starting at 23-P Ridge Rd., the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Goode, and ending at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. B. Fonda and Mrs. C. Cormack, at 6-A and 6-B Ridge Rd. I wish I could do justice to the descriptions of these homes and gardens. They were truly a feast to the eye and soul. Each one was outstanding for its beauty, originality, and individuality, and was a tribute to the good taste of the owners. All the hosts and hostesses graciously took us through their grounds, sharing the fruits of their labor with us this day. The hard work that goes into maintaining the beauty of the homes and yards can well be imagined.

THANKS VOTERS

To the Editor:

I would like to say thank you to those who worked and voted for me (and to those who did not) covertly and overtly, privately and publicly, surreptitiously and openly prior to and during the recent G.H.I. election.

And since this election revived the writings of St. Augustine to a pitch never enjoyed since the 7th Century, I will close by quoting from the good Saint again: "I know that we do not measure, nor can we measure things that are not; and things past and to come are not."

Aram Beloit

THANKS INDEPENDENTS

To the Editor:

I wish to thank those members of G.H.I. who demonstrated their independence by indicating support for a Small Loan Home Improvement Program, More Co-op Homes and a Medical Center, by voting for me.

After watching how the machines operate, I am more than pleased at the vote I received and pledge to continue to work for small loans, Co-op homes, etc. It is my intention to try to keep you fully informed at irregular intervals as to the progress made and the position of the members of the board on these issues.

Seymour Kaplan

INVITES VISITORS

To the Editor:

I would like to thank my fellow-members of GHI for their confidence in returning me to the Board of Directors for a two-year term. I deeply appreciate this trust and will continue to do my best to keep GHI as a standard for other American housing cooperatives.

I hope that many more members will attend our Board Meetings during the next year. Only by seeing your Board in action can you get a real feeling of being a part of a lively organization. Our first meeting is tonight, THURSDAY, MAY 28. Be a guest of your co-operative!

Stephen Polaschik

POST ELECTION ANALYSIS

To the Editor:

A grateful quiet has descended upon us after all that awful barrage of words in the primary. Where did that land us? What did the voters mean?

Stunned as some of the losers may be, I think that some of the successful may have equal cause for wonder, and indeed for humility.

Let me speak from the peculiar position of one who just squeaked in. As low man, eighth, upon Mr. Tydings' ticket for county delegation to the state Democratic convention, I have a real worm's-eye view to share. Two from the opposing slate "sandwiched" me; one with 125 votes more, another with about as much less.

Are you as astonished as I am that some of us, almost unknown outside our precincts, received big votes? Fourteen of us, including four on his own ticket, received more than the 15,705 votes cast for Mr. Goldstein in Prince Georges County.

Besides approving the positive leadership of Mr. Tydings in Maryland, many voters seemed to seize their opportunity to vote "No Confidence." Not so much perhaps in Mr. Goldstein and Mr. Brewster personally, as in the kind of campaign waged for them, and for what has been done by some of their recent associates in office.

In my opinion about half of the Wallace vote was not in favor of his monkey-shines and slick deceptions. How many used him only as a vehicle of resentment against more hurtful deceptions suffered nearer home? How many voters became convinced that they need not hold still for the Savings and Loan losses, for re-apportionment tricks, for tax inequities, for examples of downright corruption, for politically contrived real estate speculator privilege, and for minor office-holder inefficiencies?

P.S. We'd also like to hear from actors concerning future shows.

Swimming Pool Manager

The Greenbelt Recreation Department is pleased to announce that William Edwards has been re-hired as Manager of the Swimming Pool. Edwards, a recent graduate of the Washington Area Pool Operators Course, has been an employee of the City, at the pool, for five years. In addition to previous experience and holding the Pool Operators Course Certificate, Edwards is the holder of a Water Safety Instructors Certificate and has been engaged in teaching swimming to the blind.

Arts and Crafts Guild

Wednesday, June 3, will mark the second guest demonstration sponsored by the Greenbelt Arts and Crafts Guild, when Jack Dillinger will take up the subject of Abstract treatment with the group. For the past month, members of the Guild have been meeting on Wednesday evenings to put into practice the suggestions on Still Life composition given at the last formal exposition, and these evening sessions will be continued through June to follow up the abstract techniques. The intent is to invite other guest artists on a monthly basis to supervise these workshops, which are held at the Youth Center from 7:30 p.m. until 10 p.m.

A fitting tribute to Dillinger, who is leaving shortly for an extended European trip, is the fact that last week-end he won first honors in the Takoma Park Art Show with his oil "Stormy Seas" and second prize in mixed media for his lithography "Storm Haven." Another member of the Greenbelt Arts and Crafts Guild, Mrs. Helene Burns, won third prize in the amateur category for her collage "Motion".

Mrs. Baldwin Honored

Mrs. Margaret M. Baldwin, 69-B Ridge, will be installed as Vice-President of the Sodality Union of the Archdiocese of Washington on Tuesday, June 2 in Carroll Hall, G Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Baldwin, a resident of Greenbelt since 1945, is a member of St. Hugh's Catholic Church. She has served as prefect and treasurer of the Sodality, and is currently completing a two-year term as treasurer of the Prince Georges Deanery No. 1 of the Council of Catholic Women.

Edward F. Lastner

Edward F. Lastner, 74, a Baltimore Democratic Party leader and father of Commissioner Frank J. Lastner of Greenbelt died on May 21 at his home in Baltimore after a heart attack.

Mr. Lastner retired in 1955 from the record office of the Baltimore Superior Court where he had been a clerk for 46 years.

Besides his son, he leaves three grandchildren.

Meade-Puryear

Mr. and Mrs. Seibert D. Meade announce the engagement of their daughter Janis Lynn to Mr. Daniel Owen Puryear, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Puryear of Waldorf, Maryland.

Janis is a graduate of High Point High School, 1963, and is now attending College Park Beauty School.

Mr. Puryear is a graduate of La Plata High School and will enroll as a Junior at University of Maryland in September. A January 1965 wedding is planned.

Kasko Retires May 31

Raul R. Kasko, of 10-R Southway, Assistant Postmaster and long time employee of the Greenbelt Post Office has announced his retirement effective May 31, 1964.

He was given a party last Saturday night, at the Domino Restaurant, in Beltsville, in recognition of his 33 years of service with the government. Many postal dignitaries were present at this momentous occasion. Among those who attended were as follows: Bernard Madigan, Suggestions and Awards Officer, regional office; Joseph Alaman, local resident, who is Chief, Vehicle Maintenance Branch, regional office; Francis Leverone, Postmaster of Mt. Rainier who acted as master of ceremonies and two former postmasters of Greenbelt — Edward Kaighn, recently retired, and James Wolfe.

Kasko is a well known local photographer and has been active in the Toastmasters, Lions Club, G.H.I., Little League plus other organizations during his many years in Greenbelt.

He and his wife, Anna have purchased a home in Florida and will be moving there soon.

Lutheran Bible School

Vacation Bible School for children ages 3-6 will be held June 1-12 from 9:30-11:30 a.m. at Holy Cross Lutheran Church. Mrs. Florence Holly will be in charge. Registration will begin at 9 a.m. Monday, June 1. For information call the church office, 474-4477.

THANKS

To the Editor:

I would like to express my appreciation to all members who supported me in the elections last week. I will fulfill my obligations to the best of my ability and always work in the best interest of the members.

Josephine Seay

Chasanow Appointed

Arthur A. Marshall, Jr., State's Attorney for Prince Georges County, last week announced appointment of Howard S. Chasanow, 27, of Greenbelt, as Deputy State's Attorney.

Chasanow will replace Richard E. Painter, 38, who was appointed as a Substitute Judge of the People's Court of Prince Georges County by Governor Tawes.

Chasanow, who will become the first full-time Deputy State's Attorney for Prince Georges County, is a graduate of the University of Maryland and the University of Maryland Law School from which he received his LL.B. Chasanow is a member of the highest legal scholastic fraternity, the Order of the Coif, and was graduated first in his class.

After graduation from law school, he attended the Harvard School of Law from which he received his Master of Laws Degree and later entered the Army.

Marshall, who is the first full-time State's Attorney for Prince Georges County, said he was highly gratified that "a young attorney of Chasanow's caliber" will be filling this responsible post and added, "he will be a most valuable asset" to the conduct of public business in the Courts.

Lake Water Found To Be Good Quality

As a result of a number of inquiries and comments concerning the possibility of pollution of the water in Greenbelt Lake, the State of Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission was contacted by the city. On May 5 Mr. Edwin C. Weber, District Engineer for this Commission, took samples of the water in Greenbelt Lake.

This week the city released a letter from Mr. Weber presenting an analysis of the water condition. The following statement is from Mr. Weber's letter:

"In reviewing the analysis of the sample collected, it indicates that the water in Greenbelt Lake is of good quality as indicated by the Dissolved Oxygen of 9.3 parts per million, and the biochemical oxygen demand of 1.7 parts per million, the alkyl benzene sulfonate of 0.1 parts per million is not of sufficient quantity to affect fish life."

The alkyl benzene sulfonate is a chemical compound found in detergents.

CLOVERBUDS

by Laura Simonson

Five Greenbelt Cloverbud girls participated in the county-wide Demonstration Day. All five won blue ribbons, and one of the five won a purple ribbon.

Laura Simonson received the championship of the Poultry Foods Division for her Super Dessert Souffle. Her sisters, Linda and Jenny also participated. Linda demonstrated Finish It Right (seam finishes), and Jenny demonstrated Preserving Leaf Specimens. Mary Virginia Haker demonstrated Making Frosting and Frosting Cupcakes. Ellen Hanyok demonstrated Cereal Toppings.

Some of these demonstrations can be seen at the Greenbelt Achievement Night on June 5, along with a fashion show, exhibits, and an auction, at the Greenbelt Center School auditorium at 7 p.m. All seven 4-H clubs of Greenbelt will participate in this program. All those interested in 4-H are invited.

Canoeing Family

The Richard Bridge family, 8-A Ridge, has just returned from the National White Water Canoe Slalom Championships held in Jamaica, Vermont, May 16 and 17.

John Bridge and his partner Kris Stephens of Rockville took third place in the C-2M class (man and woman-canoe), Charles and his partner Terry Franz of Garrett Park, placed fourth in the same class. John and his father were fifth in the C-2 class (2 men-canoe). Charles also paddled his kayak in the Eastern Kayak Championships held at the same time and placed tenth in a class of 28 boats. Mr. Bridge was co-chairman of the event.

City Settles $2,500 Architects' Claim

At the request of City Manager James Giese, a special meeting was called to consider the recommendation of City Solicitor Thomas R. Brooks, concerning the claim for services of Satterlee and Smith, Architects. This account dates back to 1961 when plans and specifications were prepared for a municipal building which was to be built on Crescent Rd., adjacent to the new Fire Dept. and Rescue Squad building.

At the time the bids were received the costs were so far above the architects estimate that the new city council, elected in 1961, determined that it was not to the best interest of the city to proceed at that time. After a few months of negotiations with G.C.S. for the space behind the Co-op and the area on which the new city building now stands, it was decided to erect the new building there. Satterlee and Smith refused to revamp their drawings to conform to the suggestions of council.

A new firm of architects were employed with the understanding that any financial obligation that the city had to Satterlee and Smith would be decided by arbitration. The architects have subsequently been pressing for payment of their fee. The present city council requested the city solicitor to review the contract and determine whether or not the city should take the case to court.

After several months of negotiations the city solicitor has recommended that the case be settled out of court for the sum of $2,500. After a thorough discussion, Council produced a unanimous vote to authorize the city solicitor to settle the account as recommended.

Sun Tan Without Burning

The sunburn season is here again.

If you want to get a sunburn, it's easy. Just stay out in the summer sun too long. However, do this with the knowledge that the physical benefits of tanning are at best dubious, and that there is solid evidence that continued exposure to sun weathers and ages the skin.

If you want to get tanned, the American Medical Association offers some pointers on how to do it without burning too much.

Gradual exposure to the sun is the safest and simplest method of acquiring an attractive tan. As a general rule, begin with 15 minutes exposure the first day, and increase the time by a few minutes a day. The time of day is important, with the mid-day period, when the sun is directly overhead, being the hottest for burning purposes.

Actually, the slim possible benefits of tanning are more than offset by its potential hazards. One skin specialist who has studied the problem said recently that he foresees the day when tanning will no longer be a status symbol and the fair, creamy complexion will once again be the vogue.

Another Local Cemetery Reveals History of Area

This article is reprinted in entirety from The News Leader of Laurel, April 16, 1964.

by James C. Wilfong, Jr.

Somewhere, in the public or in private archives, the story of the Turner family of Prince Georges County must be detailed. A generation ago Dr. Henry Chandlee Foreman wrote "The Turner Family of Hebron," but this dealt with the Eastern Shore dynasty, related, perhaps, through some common ancestor with those of this other shore, but so far back to discourage any but the most redoubtable genealogist. As for the popular chronicles, the Turner name does not appear except in very oblique references. Effie Gwynn Bowie made brief mention of the family in her "Across the Years in Prince Georges County," but only through their association by marriage with the Contees of Pleasant Prospect. Her reference was brief, but provocative.

Charles Snowden Contee, she related, was born at Pleasant Prospect October 31, 1830. Contees before him had been born here, too; Richard Alexander Contee had been born in 1753 at this same mansion house already standing. It is of interest that Charles Contee's middle name was Snowden. His mother's name had been Anne Louisa Snowden. When his third child, a daughter, married Harry Turner, their first child was named Harry Snowden Turner. If he is lost in the limbo of mid-19th century anonymity he at least proves that the great families of the region married largely within their own social circle. The Contees and the Snowdens were among the proudest names of Maryland and simple deduction hints that when a Turner joined the clan this family, too, must have been considered one of some consequence.

On the northern fringe of the Town of Greenbelt, within a few hundred yards of its joining the Department of Agriculture's fenced areas, there is a Turner Family cemetery which, in itself, hints of the antiquity of the name on the Western Shore. There are no ancient inscriptions here to guide the historian on his way. In 1963, within a picketfenced enclosure of an acre or more, there is only one stone which bears the Turner name. This was a boy who died, pitifully young, in 1855, before his sixteenth birthday. In 1935 when Greenbelt was created as a startling departure in the field of government-assisted housing, the little Turner plot was established as the town cemetery. Since then, a young woman was buried here in 1942, dead at 20. In 1953 an elderly resident was laid to rest nearby. These two, with the 1855 stone for the Turner boy, are all one can glean from marked stones. But this is a site for the contemplative; if he chooses to ignore the "No Trespassing" sign on Edmonston Road, where the unimproved access road leads west through the pine and holly woods and up to the Turner plot.

Continued tanning brings gradual changes in the blood vessels of the exposed surfaces. The connective tissue of the skin degenerates, causing wrinkles and a coarsening of texture. The "V" of the neck becomes permanently reddened and freckle-like dark spots appear on the skin. These spots can sometimes be the start of skin cancer.

Sun bleaches the hair, too, and over a period of time the sun-bleached hair becomes brittle and unmanageable. However, the damaged hair will eventually grow out.

The only really beneficial effect of sunlight on the skin is formation of vitamin D, but the American diet already provides an adequate supply of this vitamin.

This is high ground — impressively high. The early Marylander, when he once left his river banks for the hinter lands, placed his homesites on the hilltops. Today's planners, more deferential to the winter winds, nor blessed with an abundance of fuel and cheap labor to acquire it, selects with some logic the protection of the valleys or some point less than the crown of the hill above. Not so, the Turners. Where family cemeteries lie, here are (or were) plantation houses. None remains here, although the archaeologist could go unerringly to one of several declivities on the site and say, like Joseph Smith, perhaps, "This is the place."

Mr. Albert Attick, the Greenbelt Director of Public Works, had told recently of the ironstone markers here. As we criss-crossed the area seeking clues to the Turner family's early residence here, we concluded Mr. Attick had told only part of the story, although we concluded that his remarks had been completely factual. We found one headstone and three smaller footstones of the same material, all roughly hewn, but not a hint of an inscription on any. We recalled some similar markers we had encountered elsewhere in Maryland.

At St. Mary Anne's at North East, for example, there are a dozen stones identical to these, honoring early Susquehannocks who had been connected to 17th century Christianity. The Friends Meeting at Deer Creek has some, unexplained, and there were others we could recall in other very early cemeteries. They spelled antiquity at every point. It took no vivid imagination to place the early Turners here: the high ground, this God's acre, these rough unlettered markers. With only these fragments of evidence it was clear that Turners had been here in very early times. Yes, and despite modest circumstances, they honored their dead. A hundred — a hundred and fifty years later, when they lost a 15 year old son in 1855, fortunes had improved to the point of marking his grave, here in this shady hilltop grave.

It was equally clear that while their tenure here in the Prince Georges County forest lands had been long, they had scattered now, far from the land of their birth. Perhaps the Rural Resettlement Administration had given impetus to their leaving, a generation ago. No doubt today's representatives are fully aware of the fact, but the Turners, like the Hamiltons and the Walkers, all have a birthright and an inheritance within the corporate limits of the Town of Greenbelt.

Maryland law placed certain protective assurances around each, a long time ago. In this day of changing landscapes and horizons an objective view of the local scene sees in it something pleasant, secure and unchanging. Precious little today can have this said of it.

The Walkers, the Hamiltons and the Turners have more than antiquity and honor of their dead to characterize their family history. These matters were inherent, added to, ever so subtly, generation by generation. At the same time there accrued to them a certain permanence and continuity, although it may be more often than not, hidden away on a pine and holly shaded hilltop.

Planning Group Recommends Apartment Zoning Slowdown

The Prince Georges Citizen's Planning Association last week recommended that the County Commissioners impose a six month moratorium on new apartment zoning in Prince Georges County. This was coupled with the further recommendation that an advisory committee be appointed, with representatives from appropriate citizen groups, to conduct a study in depth, during this six month interval, on the long-term social and economic impact of heavy residential and business development. With well over 2000 acres of undeveloped land already zoned for apartment use, the association said, this short moratorium will have no adverse effect on the housing market in the County.

These recommendations stem from an analysis developed by the Association's Study Committee on Revenue and Expenditures relating to the business and residential community in Prince Georges County. The analysis demonstrates that, contrary to the findings of a recent study by the Economic Development Committee, single family homes built in the County today do pay their way, while apartment units as a whole do not.

The Prince Georges Citizen's Planning Association notes with alarm the tendency on the part of District Council and the Planning Commission to cite the study of the Economic Development Committee as a guideline in specific zoning and policy decisions. Continued reliance upon this superficial analysis the policy decisions. Continued reliance upon this superficial analysis the Association fears, could lead Prince Georges County down a one-way street to ever increasing taxes amid a growing high rise jungle.

The presentation of the study by the Economic Development Committee—the inconsistent methods of allocating revenue, the "broad brush" analysis, the reluctance to number pages for easy reference—all suggest that the Study was designed simply to support a set of predetermined conclusions. And the reason for perpetrating this study (financed by tax money) can only be the need to justify the continuation of a zoning policy that treats Prince Georges County not as the home of half a million souls, but as a plum ripe for picking for the benefit of a handful of land speculators, favored developers, and self-serving politicians.

Are You Bugged By The "Beetles"?

If you're a modern music lover you may "dig" the current English variety of "beetle." If not, you can easily control them with a turn of the volume control on your radio or TV set. But, when it comes to the less harmonious Japanese beetle who "digs" your lawn, more drastic action is required.

About the only area the Japanese beetles haven't invaded is the world of music. However, they have made quite an unpopular record for themselves in recent years. But, thanks to insect policemen such as chlordane, their hit parade rating is being significantly reduced.

This pest, which has been "bugging" eastern U.S. citizens for some 35 years apparently is moving slowly westward. Dead or injured grass is often an indication of their presence. The grubs themselves may often be found before extensive damage is done by digging down 2 to 6 inches in the soil in areas of suspected infestation during April and May. Once their presence is established it is relatively simple to control them with chlordane.

When properly applied, this popular insecticide provides a minimum of five year's control with a single application.

New lawns also need attention in the control of beetles and other plant eating insects. Japanese beetle larvae can be controlled with chlordane while preparing the soil for seed. Mix chlordane with the top few inches of soil, or apply a chlordane fertilizer mixture. Then, sow seed. Your lawn will be protected against beetle larvae for years, and will be able to develop vigorous new growth.

The harmony you create in the care of your own lawn may not cause a nationwide sensation, but the effective control of Japanese beetles will undoubtedly put chlordane at the top of your personal insect control hit parade.

We also spent a good deal of time with the Lasters (Lakeside), who are spending their sabbatical in Cambridge. We made it back to Geneva (stranded an extra day in Paris by a French railroad strike) barely in time to unlock the door and get out the sheets for — hold it — those travelling Lasters again, heading this time for Italy. They stayed a couple of days with us, and we pooled all our kids and carried them off to the Swiss Expo (the fair held every 2 years) in Lausanne, just down a piece from Geneva. Everybody went on all the rides except Mimi and me, who remained sanely on terra firma. The Lasters are returning to England. I believe, by way of Germany, where they plan to visit Hans and Irmgard Griem (Ridge Rd), also on sabbatical this year." Summer Reading Program

Summer is a good time to catch upon your reading.

That's the opinion of more than a thousand boys and girls in Prince Georges County who, last summer, read 12,608 books in a special Summer Reading Program sponsored by the county library.

This year's program, from June 12 to Sept. 8, probably will have the largest enrollment in the six years the library has sponsored it, according to Miss Louise MacDiarmid, coordinator of children's services at Prince Georges County Memorial Library. Announcements have already gone to all school principals describing the library-oriented summer activity open to children from first through eighth grades. Greenbelt Library will participate in this program.

Each child will receive individual reading wheels and bookmarks on which to record books read. The 'wheels' are divided into these categories: Art, Science, Fantasy and Tales, Peoples of the World — Today and Yesterday, and Mystery and Adventure. Each wheel contains space for three books in each category.

"We want to encourage a child to broaden his interests and to explore new fields," said Miss MacDiarmid. Thus a youngster who in the past has read almost nothing but mysteries and adventure stories will find, after three such books, that his wheel can't be completed until he switches to another topic and chooses books of a different kind.

The summer reading program not only provides fun for the children, but also gives them a record to be placed in their school files. Each child's individual reading record is sent to his school by the county librarian in September.

Participation is entirely voluntary, and competition between children is discouraged, observed Miss MacDiarmid. The whole objective is to help children enjoy expanding their reading horizons through the device of the reading wheel. Some may read only three books, others from 50 to 100. But it is not the quantity that counts, so much as the quality of enjoyment that the librarians seek to develop in the children.

The frosting's on the cake — not in the freezer . . .

Step Up to a frost-free refrigerator-freezer

Holds everything but Frost!

Frost never accumulates in a modern frost-free refrigerator-freezer — not even if children forget to close the door on a hot summer day. Condensation is carried off continually, silently, automatically. Frost simply can't form.

Just think of it: No more hacking at stubborn ice . . . no more mop-ups . . . no more stuck ice cube trays . . . no more shrinking storage space.

In fact, you'll have far more room for food, without taking up more space in the kitchen. Thinwall insulation is the remarkable invention that makes the new refrigerator-freezer roomier on the inside, but no larger on the outside. This means you can shop less often—and when you do go to the store, you can save money on food bargains and quantity buys.
